PREUSS Yachtversicherungen must be notified of every loss in writing.
 In the case of vandalism, fire, robbery or theft the loss must be reported to the nearest police station.
 Please refer to the terms and conditions of insurance for the obligations of information and clarification incumbent on yourself following the occurrence of a loss.
 Following an insured event the insurer may thus also request that you provide all information necessary for ascertainment of the insured loss or the extent of liability on its part.
 The insurer is entitled to ask for the submission of corresponding evidence insofar as such procurement can be reasonably expected of yourself.
 Any failure to satisfy these obligations may discharge the insurer either wholly or partially from liability.
 To what extent the insurer is discharged from liability will depend on the level of blame on your part and the causality of your failure to comply with your obligations in relation to the insurer's liability.
 You are therefore obliged to reply to the above questions in full and in accordance with the truth.
 I confirm that I have replied to the above questions in full and in accordance with the truth and undertake to immediately notify the company should any lost items be found again.
